

HUNDREDS TURNED AWAY FROM DIXON FOOD SHOW

VETERAN POLICE OFFICER OF CITY DIED THIS MORN

Short Illness is Fatal to John Gaffney Early Today.

John Gaffney, veteran Dixon police officer, died at the hospital this morning at 3 o'clock, his death resulting from a short illness with stomach trouble. John was born in Chicago, June 24, 1857, living there until after his marriage to Miss Anne Caton, who preceded him in death 17 years ago. He is survived by one brother, Frank Gaffney, of Chicago, and one sister, Mrs. Anne Scanlon of Chicago.

Short services will be conducted from the Jones funeral home Saturday morning at 9:30 and from St. Patrick's church at 10 o'clock. The body will be laid to rest beside that of his wife in Oakwood cemetery.

John Gaffney came to Dixon over 30 years ago and in 1891 entered upon his duties as a member of the Dixon police department, which service continued over a period of about 25 years. Being appointed a patrolman in 1891 under Mayor George Steel, he remained a member of the department a few years, when he accepted a position as special officer at the Anglo-Swiss Milk condensery in Swissville. He remained in this capacity, for a period of about four years.

Resigned in 1916

With the inauguration of the commission form of government in Dixon in April 1916, he was appointed chief of police under Mayor William Brin-ton. He severed his connection with the police department a few months after the election of Mayor Henry Schmidt, by resignation on May 31, 1916.

He was selected by Sheriff Frank Schoenholz and appointed turnkey at the Lee county jail, Nov. 1, 1920, in which position he continued until his illness of a few days ago. As a city officer, John Gaffney was efficient and his amiable disposition won for him an unlimited number of friends, not only among the several state police officials, but among the citizens of Dixon as well. He was a good officer and an excellent chief. Every child in Dixon knew him and respected him.

Another Clash in Senate This Morn Over Newberry Case

By Associated Press Leased Wire Washington, Feb. 9.—Another partisan clash occurred today in the senate over the Newberry election case, democratic senators taking sharp exception to an attack by Senator Pepper, republican of Pennsylvania, on their votes against Senator Newberry.

Senator Ashurst, Democrat of Wisconsin, asked the senate's attention to a speech by Senator Pepper last night at Albany, New York, in which the new senator said that every democrat had not expressed moral courage "in voting against Senator Newberry and had not followed their convictions." Senator Pepper also said that the democrats had proceeded to "tarnish that honor of the senate" by voting like a flock of sheep.

Senator Ashurst said he did not believe Senator Pepper had been quoted correctly. Senator Pepper had not returned today and Senator Ashurst said when he did he would expect Mr. Pepper to "avow or disavow" his reputed remarks.

The alleged remarks could not have been uttered on the senate floor without violating the senate's rules, Senator Ashurst declared, adding that if the Pennsylvania senator had made such a statement he had "been guilty of moral cowardice."

Waiters Taken in Crap Game, Guests at Hotel Go Hungry

By Associated Press Leased Wire Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 9.—Diners at one of the large downtown hotels waited impatiently for service last night. The management started a search for the waiters when the patrons became impatient and demanded service.

The search ended at police headquarters. Thirty-five of the hotel waiters, negroes, had been arrested in a crap game in a nearby house. A hurry up call to police headquarters brought back the missing waiters, who raced through the downtown section on foot.

The patrons turned back to the dining room, assured of something more substantial physically than the strains of the orchestra. The negroes will face a gambling charge in police court, with the hotel management pledged to see that every one of the thirty-five is there.

HIS LAST CALL

JOHN GAFFNEY

Harvey Church, Under Death Sentence, is on Hunger Strike, Report

By Associated Press Leased Wire Springfield, Ill., Feb. 9.—The Supreme Court this morning denied Harvey Church a stay of execution for the murder of two Chicago automobile salesmen. Church has been sentenced to hang Feb. 17.

By Associated Press Leased Wire Chicago, Feb. 9.—Harvey Church, convicted of the murder of two automobile salesmen here last fall, has begun a hunger strike, it was reported here today, and his condition already has disturbed jailers. It was said, Church is reported to have lost forty pounds since he was imprisoned last fall and is in such poor physical condition, that it is believed a persistent effort to refrain from food would cause his death in less than the forty days, usually believed as the greatest length of time an average human being can exist without food.

Transport Fire Not an Accident?

DIXON QUINTET TO PLAY IN TOURNEY AT FREEPORT MAR. 2

District Basket Ball Classic Has Been Divided By Association.

The Dixon High school basket ball team will tackle the DeKalb High school team, to which the Dixon boys lost their first game of the season, in a return contest here Saturday evening. The game will be played at the South Side High school gym, and should draw a large attendance, for the boys now need all encouragement it is possible to give them in preparation for the annual tournament.

Because of the large number of entries for the district tournament, the Illinois High School Athletic Ass'n. has decided that two meets shall be held in this district, it being found impossible to handle all the teams at Rockford as formerly. Accordingly it has been decided to split the district, and tournaments will be held at both Rockford and at Freeport on March 2, 3 and 4.

Dixon to Freeport Meet.

Announcement is made by E. W. Whitten, superintendent of DeKalb schools and vice president of the Illinois High School Athletic Ass'n., that the teams in the two tournaments shall be:

Rockford—Belvidere, Woodstock, Sterling, Woodstock, Rochelle, Morrison, Oregon, Rockford, in Class A; Mt. Carroll, Byron, Capron, Stillman Valley, Lee Center, Harlem, Consolidated Winnebago, New Milford, in Class B.

Freeport—Dixon, Mendota, Polo, Galena, Stockton, Rock Falls, Mt. Morris and Freeport, in Class A; Warren, Peatonica, Elizabeth, Orangeville, Hanover, Winslow, East Dubuque and Davis, in Class B.

Winner of these two tournaments, with the district champions of Elgin, Oak Park, Joliet, Ottawa and Aurora will play for the sectional title at Aurora March 10 and 11, the winner of that event contesting with the sectional winners of the Mt. Vernon, Peoria and Decatur tournaments for the state championship at Urbana.

DECENT CONDUCT BY ACTORS HELD TO BE ESSENTIAL

Dr. Yarrow Says Movie Actors Are Public Characters.

By Associated Press Leased Wire Chicago, Feb. 9.—Speaking on the subject, "Hollywood Needs Haycs," Dr. Philip Yarrow of the Illinois Vigilance Association said in an address last night, that "the moral irregularities disclosed by its illumination are shocking, but recognition of their existence is necessary to any improvement."

"Monstrous as are the evils revealed, they are what might be naturally expected in the actual life of certain players when their screen appearance is often marked by indecencies in dress and act," he said. "Movie actors are public characters and their personal life cannot be considered private. Their influence on modern life is so great that their every act is known and discussed. Millions of children set at the feet of their favorites and drink impressions that make or mar their future."

"These impressions include both the visual image and the salacious scandals repeated all about them regarding their idols. Decent conduct, therefore, becomes imperative."

Little Miss is Hit in Food Show Booth

Little three-year-old Lotus Mann of Clinton, Iowa, has been unanimously voted the queen of Dixon's pure food show. The little lady is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack J. Mann of Clinton, who are in charge of the H. Korn Baking company's exhibit. In her Betsy Ross attire, she very gracefully hands out miniature loaves of Betsy Ross bread at the Korn exhibit. Her father is sales manager for the Korn Baking company at Clinton.

Dixon Preacher to Speak in Clinton

10,000 PROFESSIONAL CRIMINALS LIVING IN CHICAGO SAYS REPORT

Commission Wants More Speed in Trials of All Accused.

By Associated Press Leased Wire Chicago, Feb. 9.—Chicago is the home of about 10,000 professional criminals, or about one-third of one per cent of the city's population, according to estimates of the Chicago crime commission, made public today.

The reason for such an unprecedented number of lawbreakers here is ascribed by the crime experts to the slowness with which the wheels of justice are set in motion and the small number of convictions.

During 1921, it is pointed out, less than one out of four of all the defendants tried for murder in Cook county were convicted. In cases involving 225 defendants there were only six death sentences, including the one in the case of Tommy O'Connor who escaped from the county jail four days before he was to have been hanged.

On April 1, 1920, there were 135 persons indicted for murder and awaiting trial. On 104 of these cases, the crime commission points out, the accused were out on bond, and in the majority of cases so much time had elapsed since indictment that witnesses had vanished and much evidence had been lost.

Want More Speed

As proof of their contention that speedy justice reduces crime, the commission cites statistics showing that when this condition was brought to the attention of the courts and an effort was made at once to clear the murder docket, twelve of those indicted were sentenced to hang and twelve were given jail sentences.

The effect produced, it is claimed, was electrical. The murder rate in Chicago was almost cut in half. Where there were 330 murders in 1919 there were 190 in 1921. Robbers in 1920 were 1192 and in 1921, 2558.

Recently however, it was pointed out, convictions have been rare and there have been many loopholes through which law breakers and criminals escaped. As a result the commission contends, crime is increasing.

Detective Sergeants Frank Young and Daniel Mechttersheimer of the Chicago detective bureau spent a short time at the police station yesterday visiting with Chief J. D. Van Bibber.

MABEL'S LETTERS TO TAYLOR ARE FOUND REPORT

All Investigations Now Under Direction of Dist. Atty.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Los Angeles, Feb. 9.—The centralized investigation at the district attorney's office of the mystery surrounding the killing of William Desmond Taylor was expected to begin today, following the alleged discovery and turning over to that official last night of the missing letters written to the director by Mabel Normand.

As Thomas Lee Woolwine, district attorney, is taking charge of the trial of Mrs. Madalynne Obenchain for the murder of J. Belton Kennedy, W. C. Doran, his chief deputy, was placed in charge of the Taylor case.

Although verification from him was not obtainable, the Los Angeles Times published today a statement that the Normand letters, with several telegrams, were in the hands of Mr. Doran.

Gets All Evidence.

It had been previously announced evidence in the case from all sources—whether gathered by city detectives or by deputies of the sheriff—would be turned over to Mr. Doran, and all forces, including detectives assigned to the district attorney's office, would pool their energies in trying to solve the mystery. To this was added today the announcement that Mr. Doran would make all official statements on the progress of the investigation hereafter, although the various officers stated there would be no abatement of their zeal in trying to uncover the murder.

Miss Normand, who once searched the Taylor apartments for her letters and who is said to be ill as a result of a collapse at the Taylor funeral on Tuesday, has been quoted as saying her only desire to regain possession of the letters was founded on a fear that some of the phrases in them would be misunderstood. She said she felt a strong friendship for the director, but there had been no serious love affair between them.

Found Handkerchief.

A second handkerchief found its way into the investigation when, about the same time the detectives said they found the letters in a box in a closet in the Taylor apartments, Henry Peavey, Taylor's negro houseman, as suddenly found a handkerchief bearing the initials "M. M. M." A handkerchief previously reported found near the body shortly after the crime was discovered, but since said to be missing, was alleged to have borne the initial "S."

It is regarded improbable that a complaint charging murder will be issued against any person in connection with the case until after the

INFORMATION ON FIRE REFUSED BY SHIP'S CAPT. Members of Crew Are Also Forbidden to Talk It.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Newport News, Va., Feb. 9.—Survivors of the former transport Northern Pacific, which was burned at sea yesterday with a loss of four lives are not convinced that the burning of the ship was wholly accidental.

While neither Captain William Lusti, who was in command, nor any member of the crew would make a formal statement concerning the fire, some of the latter declared they suspected foul play.

An attorney for the Sun Ship Building Company was here today for the purpose of obtaining sworn statements from the crew.

One of the three boats picked up by the Transportation contained thirteen men and in the other two were distributed the remainder of those saved, including Captain Lusti, Chief Engineer Clayton and executive officer, Clyde Smith. The rescue ship, commanded by Captain Seth Chase of Boston, was on her way to Hampton Roads to load a cargo of coal for Boston.

The Wylie, bringing five survivors from the Northern Pacific, came in Hampton Roads unnoticed last night and transferred her passengers to one of the boats of the Virginia Pilots Association. The survivors were taken to Ewell's Point and from there went to Norfolk.

Captain Lusti is said to have warned his men that the Shipping Board orders prohibit their telling anything of the accident.

A conference between Captain Lusti, shipping board officials of this district, officials of the Bacon Steam Ship Co. and officials of the Admiral Line will be held here today.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 9.—The steamer Transportation with twenty-two survivors of the steamer Northern Pacific, which burned forty miles off Cape May, N. J., yesterday, arrived at Newport News this morning.

The captain of the Northern Pacific who was aboard the Transportation, refused to make any statements as to the origin of the fire on his vessel and members of his crew said he had issued orders forbidding them to make any statement.

The master of the Northern Pacific was unable to account for the four engineers of the Sun Shipbuilding Company of Chester, Pa., who were reported missing following the sinking of the ship.

Five men, including the second assistant engineer and the second officer, were picked up by the tank steamer Herbert G. Wylie, he said. The Wylie picked up one boat load of survivors and the Transportation three boat loads.

HALL CROWDED TO VERY LIMIT LAST EVENING

Doors Will Open at 7 This Evening; Big Success.

To say that the Pure Food Show at the Merchants' Division of the Dixon Chamber of Commerce was a howling success, is to literally tell the truth for there were a great many howls of disappointed citizens of Dixon when the Mayor and Chief of Police halted them at the lower door on account of all standing room being taken in the K. of C. Hall. Hundreds went home disappointed while others remained at the foot of the stairs and waited their chance to get in as some of those on the inside departed early. If six went home early, six were allowed in and the hall was packed to capacity until after Miss Betsy Ross had finished her gazing into the Mystic Churn.

The crowd was delighted when she reported the results of her gazing and found that many of them had been born under a lucky star and were entitled to the following from the Goddess of Supply:

Mrs. R. A. Brainerd, a basket of K-O-W-E-B-A fruit.

Wm. Green, a pair of Hartsell's lard.

Henry Bremer, one 2 1/2 pound can of Price's baking powder.

Mrs. J. C. Wadsworth, one 2 1/2 lb. can of Price's baking powder.

Mrs. Lyman Booth, the beautiful aluminum coffee percolator.

Mrs. Anna Schick, one whole side of Arnold's bacon.

Mrs. Edith Rooster, 6 cans of Club House corn.

Miss Youngman, 5 lbs. ton of Dellmonti prunes.

Mrs. Filson, an order for 10 loaves of Betty Ross' bread.

Mrs. John Blackburn, 2 lbs. of cocoa butter.

Mrs. Connibear, basket of Creve-Coeur fruit.

Mrs. Roy Bridges, 1 qt. bottle of maple syrup, Richieu brand.

Mrs. Jacobus, box of "Clodon's Best" candy.

Mrs. Wedlock, one box of Borden's candy.

Mrs. Dave Heagy, one box of Borden's candy.

George Tell, 5 lb. box of Fairy Soda crackers.

Wm. Rink, 1/2 lb. of tea.

Mrs. Raymond Derr, 1/2 lb. of tea.

Mrs. Lee Lambert, 1 lb. of Coss' butter.

Mrs. Joe Villiger, 1 lb. of Coss' butter.

Mrs. Gasser, 1 basket of fancy fruits.

George Prescott, 1 sack of Komo flour.

On account of the limited space no children under the age of 18 will be admitted this evening. The Secretary-Manager through the Superintendent of the Schools has notified all the school children, and others are asked to take notice. The ladies and housewives are especially invited. Miss Betty Ross will again gaze into the Mystic Churn. Bring your lucky star with you. Although the show does not start until 8 o'clock the doors will open at 7 o'clock.

Soap Flakes Made Poor Breakfast Food

Mistaking a sample of soap flakes to be a new make of breakfast food, three men partook more or less freely thereof last evening at the pure food show and one, whose appetite was probably the most keen, is said to have suffered some ill effects. A visitor was handed the sample of soap flakes and wandered over to another booth to talk with the exhibitor, a local grocer. Both looked at the contents of the sample and sampled them. A friend from Na-chusa approached about this time and at their invitation liberally helped himself to the supposed breakfast food.

Baseball Star is After More Money

By Associated Press Leased Wire St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 9.—A disagreement has arisen between Rogers Hornsby, leading batsman of the National League and officials of the local nationals over signing of a 1922 contract, it was learned today. Hornsby, who last year received $11,000, is asking $25,000 a year for three years, while club officials so far have agreed to pay him only $15,000 a year for three years, it was said.

YORKVILLE, O., QUIET AFTER STRIKE RIOTS

Sheriff and Deputies Guard Mills, Which
Are Running.

Yorkville, O., Feb. 9.—(By the Associated Press)—Five thousand

searchlights mounted on water

towers and other high parts of the Yorkville plant of the Wheeling Steel Corporation swept the hills on each side of the Ohio river last night. They also searched every road leading into

the village for possible gatherings of mill workers who have been on strike

since last July. The night passed quietly, after the excitement of yesterday, when one striker was killed

and a sympathizer was wounded by shooting from within the mill.

Sheriff Edwards Lucas of Jefferson county, with his forty deputies, patrolled the streets of the town in the vicinity of the plant, but did not interfere with the squads of strikers,

who throughout the night, kept careful watch of the streets around the company's property. The towns folk retired soon after midnight.

In the mill yard all was bustle and action. Supt. McNulty said that four hot mills were in operation.

Intense interest was manifested by the strikers in persistent reports that

officers of the United Mine Workers

of America had asked Governor Davis

to order all armed guards, except the sheriff's regular deputies, taken away

from the mills.

While many of the strikers are

American born, perhaps the majority are of foreign birth. Included among the foreigners, it was stated by citizens, were some seventeen national-

ities.

sion delegates said today was a theory.

"When light falls upon the walls of a very rough painted surface, less of it is thrown back," Mr. Gardner declared. "Sound waves also are absorbed by such a surface." When there is too much reverberation in a room, a soft-painted absorbing surface, with proper curtains, hangings

and carpets may correct it. Dead-ening of the echoes in a room accommodates each sound in a definite manner. If a room is 'dead' add metal fixtures sufficient to tune up the sound."

Ulster's Frontier

Line of Steel Now

Belfast, Feb. 9.—(By the Associated

ly a line of steel today, following the raids yesterday, in which many unionists were kidnapped. From Port-

adown, county Armagh, to Belleek

on the Permacanagh border, border

forces of "specials" were on guard,

as well as heavy contingents of the regular constabulary.

BE PLEASANT—

We cannot, of course, all be handsome, and it's hard for us all to be good. We are sure, now and then, to be lonely. And we don't always do as we should. To be patient is not always easy. To be cheerful is much harder still. But at least we can always be pleasant. If we make up our minds that we will.

And it pays every time to be kindly. Although you feel worried and blue; If you smile at the world and look cheerful. The world will still smile back at you. So try to brace up and look pleasant. No matter how long you are down. Good humor is always contagious. You furnish your friends when you frown.

SEWED FOR ASSOCIATED CHARITIES—

The American Legion Auxiliary had charge of the work yesterday at the rooms at the Associated Charities in the Shaw building where all ladies of the city are invited to meet and sew for those needing assistance. ## W. C. O. F. TO MEET—

The W. C. O. F. will meet this evening in the rooms over K. C. Hall at 7:30. The Food Show is being held in the K. C. Hall and the W. C. O. F. will meet upstairs.

LADIES' SOCIAL CIRCLE PRAIRIEVILLE—

The Ladies' Social Circle of Prairieville held a most enjoyable all day meeting yesterday at the home of Mrs. Albion Seavey.

The meeting was largely attended, twenty-three members, nine guests and nine children being present. A delicious scramble dinner was served at noon, the table being beautifully decorated with a bouquet of carnations, frezias, and snap dragon.

In the afternoon some business was disposed of after the president, Mrs. Laura Royer, had opened the meeting. A piano duet by the Misses Lola and Bessie Seavey gave great pleasure.

Mrs. Royer read an interesting article, followed by a reading by Mrs. Fred Fredericks which was encored. Mrs. Carl Straw then gave a reading which was also encored. The meeting closed with prayer and song.

The entire day proved to be one of great interest and pleasure to all. The next meeting will be in two weeks with Mrs. Carl Straw.

DELIGHTFULLY ENTERTAINED MONDAY EVENING—

Mrs. Dave Boos, Miss Allie Moeller and Mrs. Gertrude Petty delightfully entertained for the officers of the O. E. S. for 1921, and their husbands and wives on Monday evening at the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Boos. There were about thirty present and five hundred was the diversion for the evening. Mrs. W. B. Anderson was awarded the ladies' first prize and Lee Read won the first prize for the gentlemen. Mrs. Homer Sennett was awarded the consolation prize for the ladies and William Ware won that for gentlemen.

After the five hundred a social hour was spent with music and delicious light refreshments were served. The Boos home had been profusely and beautifully decorated with flowers and ferns for the occasion, daffodils and other spring flowers used. The evening was one of great pleasure to all attending, the guests voting Mrs. Boos, Mrs. Petty and Miss Moeller most successful hostesses.

DELIGHTFULLY SURPRISED LAST EVENING—

Sixty friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Eicholtz north of town last evening and gave them a farewell surprise party. Mr. and Mrs. Eicholtz plan to move to Dixon this spring. They have resided on the farm for twenty-seven years, and are highly esteemed by a large number of friends and neighbors.

Last evening the host and hostess were genuinely surprised when the large company of neighbors and friends arrived, but soon recovered and made their guests welcome. A delightful evening was spent in various games and in enjoying musical selections. A most appetizing supper was served.

A feature of the happy evening was the presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Eicholtz of a handsome rocking chair. The gift was presented in a gracious speech to the host and hostess by H. J. Hughes in a few well chosen congratulatory words. Mr. and Mrs. Eicholtz responded with words of appreciation. The entire evening proved one of unusual enjoyment to all attending. The neighbors and friends will regret very much the departure of such good neighbors, and Dixon will welcome them.

GLEASON ROCK—

On Monday morning, Feb. 6th, at St. Plannen's church, Harmon, occurred the ceremony which united the lives of two prominent young people of that parish when Mary Irene, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Gleason of Rock Falls became the bride of Thomas Henry, second son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Rock of Dixon.

Promptly at 8:30 the bridal party proceeded to the altar where Nuptial High Mass was read by Rev. Father Moore.

The bride was attended by Miss Mabel Mannion, her cousin, as bridesmaid while William Rock served his brother as best man.

The bride was becomingly attired in

The bridesmaid also wore a navy blue suit with a bouquet of frezias and pink sweet peas.

After the ceremony a three-course wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents to the immediate families.

Mr. and Mrs. Rock left for Chicago on their honeymoon. They will be at home to their many friends after March 1st on a farm near Van Patten.

KINGDOM-COMMUNITY AID—

The Kingdom-Community Aid society held a well attended meeting all day yesterday at the hospitable home of Mrs. Norman Miller, with thirty being present. The members and friends enjoyed a day of sewing, finishing garments for the Community Welfare committee of this city and also sewing many quilt blocks, accomplishing quite a bit of work.

At noon the dinner was served, and all did ample justice to the appetizing repast. The table was graced with a fine cake on a cut glass standard for the center piece and it made a most inviting appearance. Flowers were also in evidence.

Mrs. Hubert Bahen and Mrs. Bert Lindeman were guests from St. James, as was Mrs. George Patterson. Mr. and Mrs. Patterson expect soon to move to the Norman Miller farm, the Millers moving southeast of Nachusa. Mrs. William Nixon, Mrs. Frank Young and Mrs. S. Rankin of Dixon were also guests of the society for the day.

THE BOY WIZARD

Little Samuel Rzeschewski, the sensational nine-year-old chess wizard from Poland, is back in New York. On his western tour, he won 3491 out of 1500 games played with grown-up chess veterans.

Is Sammie satisfied with his laurels?
No. He yawns. It is announced that he will tour the country as an operatic singer. His first concert will be in Lakewood, N. J., during February.

Theatrical performers will chuckle
and comment: "Yes, when they can dance, they want to sing. And when they can sing, they want to dance."

Will Sammie make a hit as an opera star? Yes, after some preliminary training. This is predicted by Mischa Elman, the violinist, and by Cantor Rosenblatt, the tenor. They have great faith in his vocal possibilities.

That would be something new under
the sun.

For the child prodigy, precocious
mentally is almost invariably a physical weakness. His thyroid gland secretes too much iodine—runs his brain engine so fast that his body
suffers.

It will be phenomenal if any part of Sammie's body—even his singing apparatus—proves to be above normal.

Wise old father of Sammie Rzeschewski isn't taking any chances on careers in chess or opera.

He is starting an insurance company, named after his son.

Socrates would nod approval at that. The shrewd man always has something salted away for emergency.

Amazing prodigies like Samuel Rzeschewski visit our world about once in a century or two. See him,
if you ever get the chance.

Young ladies, still playing with dolls, will be interested in this: Sammie has taken a vow never to shake hands with a woman.

It will be fascinating to watch his career unfold. Right now he is unquestionably the brightest boy in the world.

vanced the average standard of living
as much as the old European and Asiatic civilizations advanced it in a thousand years.

The luxuries of today become the necessities of tomorrow. Many disapprove of the system, and think we would be happier if we returned to the simple life. But that doesn't change the facts.

Prof. Briggs, in estimating the amount spent on luxuries, says it is 46 times as much as the sum paid in teachers' salaries. He claims that a third of the nation's tobacco bill
would support all our schools.

It is a fine thing to see more and more luxuries brought within the reach of all. But are we getting the right kind?

Education is the greatest of all luxuries. Better for all of us if we had more of it.

HUGO'S BETTER PRICE

This is important, especially to men out of jobs or working only part time:

The steel trade has been hearing
rumors that German steel manufacturers are about to enter the American market on a large scale, bringing cut-throat prices.

Hugo Stinnes steps out from the atmosphere of rumors and announces that he has 15,000 tons of steel rails,
ready on the docks at Hamburg,
which he is offering for delivery in America at lower than the American price.

To make 1000 tons of steel rails in our country requires the labor of 5000
men for one day.

If Stinnes, instead of an American mill, gets the order for 15,000 tons of rails, it will mean that 5000 American steel workmen will be idle for 15 days.

On a larger or smaller scale, that is the effect when any of us buys
abroad at a cheaper price something that could be made in America.

Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation says
an ounce of gold today buys the labor of an American workman for 17 hours.

The same ounce of gold buys 50
hours of labor in England, 96 hours
in Japan, 117 hours in France and 202 hours in Germany.

The labor cost in manufacture is,
according to these figures, 12 times
as high in America as in Germany.

This is largely due to difference in foreign exchange, based on the gold standard of money.

Last year, to protect American workmen against a flood of millions of low-waged foreigners pouring into
our country and demoralizing wages,
Congress passed a bill restricting immigration.

The foreign workman, barred from America, have stayed at home. They are compelled to work there, their products flowing into our markets.
Automatically, that throws American
workmen out of jobs, just as thoroughly as if the labor competition
were allowed to enter.

Just how much that competition
amounts to now, cannot be estimated exactly. But it is large. And it is bound to increase as European countries get their machinery of production back to normal.

EXPERIENCE

The $40,000,000 heiress, who will marry a workman 22 years younger than herself, doesn't believe years
have much to do with age.

She says her fiancé's war experiences made him "older than his years."

Plausibly. Many a soldier in battle has aged 10 years in as many minutes. The shock of a domestic tragedy in a twinkling adds years to the one affected. A financial smash can turn a gay young spendthrift into a broken old wreck.

Real age—which is a matter of mind and soul—is measured by experience, not time.

JOHN D.

In 20 years John D. Rockefeller has given $126,788,094 to teachers and schools, through his educational board.

Charity, as viewed by the world's richest man, is best handled by attacking poverty at its sources—ignorance and poverty. Kill these two monsters and poverty automatically will vanish. Such is the interesting philosophy of John D.

If you had his money, could you spend it in a wiser way? If so, how?

Rockefeller, if he lived 300 years,
would go a step further and recognize war as the leading cause of disease and ignorance.

LEADERS

Keeping the nations at peace with each other depends on "as much intercourse as possible betwixt people
and as little as possible betwixt governments."

This comment is from the pen of Richard Cobden, English statesman,
economist and original enemy of tariffs.

Cobden died 57 years ago. But his notion that wars are caused by governments, not people, is as timely

BRINGING UP FATHER

now as when he wrote it. Same thought probably has occurred to mature intellects since time began.

Truth is the most obvious thing is life. Also, the most elusive and disregarded.

HAIR

A red headed person has about 90,- 000 hairs growing out of the scalp.
Speaker says this at convention of New England hairdressers.

The figure seems unbelievably large. Yet it is low. Brunets average 110,000 hairs, blondes 140,000.

Scientists, claiming prehistoric man was as hairy as a monkey, say that thinness of hair or baldness is a sign of superior mentality. Future
men all bald as eggs, is the prediction.

If the scientists are right, the red heads must be a super-race.

A $20,000 auto and six brownstone
mansions in Petrograd were owned by Oscar Payor a few years ago. He was a multimillionaire, the leather tanning king of Russia.

The bolsheviks seized his property
and money.

Payor arrives in Boston. Worked his way across the Atlantic, shoveling coal in the engine room of the Norwegian steamer Corona.

Americans who think they have
had hard luck during depression,
should compare their lot with Payor's.

Is he discouraged? No. We washed
the coal dust off his hands, announces
he will begin working at the bottom
and "one of these days may be an American millionaire."

You never can tell. Payor is only 32. And America is a young man's country.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS
by Olive Roberts Burton

"Here we are now, at the gate of Mother Nature's school.

A queer thing happened when Buskins and the Twins arrived in the strange new country above the clouds on their dandelion parachutes. The little dandelion parachutes (or seeds)
suddenly became alive and Nancy and Nick saw that they had kind bright faces, and arms and legs and feet.

"Will you please excuse us now,"
said the little seeds. "We are going to Mother Nature's school and we are afraid that we'll be late."

"Oh, yes indeed," said Nancy politely. "Go right along, I'm sorry if we kept you. And thank you for bringing us."

"That's all right," they answered,
hurrying off.

"We're going to visit your school,"
said Buskins, "and if you are late, I'll tell Mother Nature all about it." Then to the children, "I'll tell you more about this place as we go along. You see, Mother Nature has a school here
for the little seeds that fly, so they'll know how to grow. Many of the seeds have wings, you know, or something just as good, that they can fly with like your parachutes. The dandelion
seeds are only one kind.

"There are also the thistle-seeds,
the milk-weed seeds, and the seeds of many kinds of trees and flowers. Some other seeds fly in a different way. They have jiggers on them and stick to the birds' wings and feathers. When the birds fly, the seeds hang on until they come to a place where they wish to grow, then they drop off.

"But here we are now, at the gate of Mother Nature's school. Come on,
let us go in. I'm sure we are welcome.
Mother Nature isn't easily disturbed
and she'll be glad to see us."

Buskins opened the gate and they all walked into a large garden where little seeds sat in rows and a beautiful fairy sat at a desk.

THE PARTING

Goodby, Jazz; they say you're finished.
You are through;
All your glory is diminished.
So—adieu!
By the highbrows you are banished.
You must go.
You will presently have vanished.
Ain't it so?

Goodby, Jazz; you've got to beat it,
You're passe;
Goodby, Jazz; must I repeat it?
On your way!
Goodby, Jazz; hey wait a minute.
What's that air
With that syncope in it?
It's a bear!

Sets my pulses all to prancing.
Pretty soon
I shall certainly be dancing
To that tune!
Oh my shoulders they are twitching.
I'm a slave
To that jazz rhythm witching.
Feet—behave!

MIND VS. MUSCLE
Common Sense Wins to Keep Well

There is a cult we might call the cult of muscle. It has found great stimulation from the findings of the army medical examinations.

Its code is:
Remember that you are at bottom
but an animal. The real business of your mind is to indicate how best your muscles may be developed. Be muscular and you will be happy.

But the principles of modern science tell us the truth. They teach that the cultivation of muscle is a means, not an end. They teach muscles are really the end organs of certain kind of nerves called motor, that the muscles
for which the nervous system has no
purpose are simply a burden.

A muscle is a living organ of great vitality, whether it be used or not, and its upkeep demands a large supply
of food and a perpetually working apparatus for disposing of its waste products.

OBSERVATIONS OF JAPAN BY C. BACKUS

Former Dixon Man Writes of Travels in Mikado's Empire—Many Interesting Tales.

"Why, asked I, the little fir trees backed up by three bamboo sticks each, as Christmas trees? It must mean something." "It does, replied the old timer, but you can't find out. It is some Buddhist affair or other but just the meaning, they never will tell." However, I pointed one out to him, planted just opposite an entrance, with its twin on the other side as is done at Yuletide in the Land of Cherry Blossoms. And here it is as Shingo told it to me:

"We do not tell it to many foreigners, for they only laugh. It is a symbol only but to us, very pretty. Green speaks for stability as it is green in the winter and in the summer it is truth everlasting and never changing. The bamboo is always straight, never crooked. Men should be ever straight, never crooked. The plum blossoms which you will find inside the houses at this time are sweet. They are the blossoms that are sweet in the summer and sweet in the winter. In adversity and in prosperity we should ever be sweet and unchanging. It is difficult to tell you the exact meaning with English words, but we mean more than I have told you."

"Is human life as cheap in Japan as in the farther Far East?" I asked the old timer. "It all depends on the class, on environment, etc., but I think I may say life is, on the whole, more valuable here. I will tell you a tale of a friend of mine as it was told to me. He was driving his motor through a village one slippery day when a little girl who was playing with others along the narrow wayside, suddenly dived in front of the car and before he could stop, she was killed. Almost at once he was surrounded by villagers making a great outcry against him, demanding revenge on the foreign devil who would ruthlessly kill a girl. My friend instructed his chauffeur to tell them he could not understand Japanese for he realized his danger thoroughly and knew the character of the type of people who confronted him. As they drew about his car threateningly, he took from his pocket a roll of bills and asked for the father of the victim, who was brought to him. The man was sent for and upon his arrival my friend expressed his sorrow and regret at the accident, placing in his hands ten five yen notes and was permitted to pass on his way with no further menace. He dodged that road for a long time but at last found himself on it one day and minus the necessary water in his reservoir. He stopped at a house to procure some and was recognized by the father of the girl he had killed, who approached with much deference and asked why he had not been that way for a long time.

"But surely you have been glad of that, said the motorist, since your children are no longer in danger from me." "Yes, said the Japanese we like our children to be safe but, you know, fifty yen is a great deal of money to a poor man."

"This tale I can vouch for because it happened me. As you know I drive a Ford. While approaching a long bridge one day an old woman who was hidden by one of their huge parasols was walking in the direction I was going, on the wrong side of the road. Just as I was about to pass her she suddenly remembered that she was on the side opposite that which the police had probably instructed her to walk on, and darted across just in time to be missed by all save the rear of the machine, which evidently caught the parasol and tearing it, cut her neck with a remnant. When I looked back she was lying in a pool of blood evidently badly hurt. Back went we in a state of mind you may appreciate. However, she was alive though unconscious. We lifted her into the car and the Japanese whom we tried to get to identify her as usual ran away and we decided to take her to the nearest hospital. While still on the bridge, however, she opened her eyes and asked where she was. My wife who speaks the language perfectly told her we were on such and such a long bridge. "Ah, yes, she replied. I live just beyond. Please let me out as I have been much bother to you." We told her we must take her home as she might start the hemorrhage in her neck again if she attempted to walk. So we drew up to the cottage she had indicated and instructed a girl there as to the care she should have, etc., and, pressing a ten yen note into her hand, departed. My wife happened to look back after we had turned for home and beheld the victim of our tin Henry hoofing it down the road at a lusty rate. We soon caught her and remonstrated, while she bowed and bobbed in a most alarming manner considering the wound in the neck which I looked to see reopened any moment. Then the truth came out. She lived a long way off but had so much trouble to her master that she could not think of further imposing on him, etc., and, mind you, it took almost force to get the old lady to let us see her home."

"You met Jimmy Blank at the office the other day, remember? Well, Jimmy and another man went shooting and an old woman straightened up from her work in the rice paddy field just in time to catch a load of shot meant for some birds; in the back, Jimmy carted her to a hospital and had her doctored up properly, paid the bill and gave her a bit of money for which she professed her thanks, begging to be excused for all the annoyance she had caused and asking when they would pass that way again. Evidently, the fine treatment in the hospital and the lure of the mighty yen were too great a temptation."

On the electric bound to Tokyo from Yokohama, than which there is no better service, with cars running every 12 minutes and making the twenty miles in forty minutes, several high class Japanese entered and with but one seat to be divided between three remaining on the hoof, there was a plenty of bowing and scraping while they lissed at one another like a flock of geese, getting out words while taking in wind. "Why, said I, do they do it?" My room boy and bath boy at the hotel go at me the same way and I don't get it. Never mind old dear. Don't complain if they are doing that act to you for it means a mark of respect to a superior. They refuse to breathe on a superior being, consequently work the intake when speaking to one they wish to convey this idea to. You are due for some tips." Not a bad idea, that, for a garlic eating country!

Remember the tomb stone Kipling made famous just outside Bombay? "Here lies a fool who tried to hurry the East." Somehow, with all her boast of improvement and accomplishment, one scarcely expects to find Japan in this league, battling 300 with no chance of a slump in sight. Young man, if you come to Japan on business and would succeed, don't attempt to throw in on high. Anticipate taking a pair of weeks accomplishing what you might in Uncle Sam's land in a day. These people can't be hurried and you spell down to your enlistment when you attempt to do it. Witness the case of young Skelly, a most likable chap who came with all the confidence of youth, backed by a splendid firm. "Gosh, said he, I came over here to show these Guys some real pep and modern methods and I can't do a thing with them. They agree with me and everything seems to be going fine but I can't get anywhere. They talk over home about them being up to date and progressive but take it from me, it's bunk with all letters written big. I'm going where the real goods are appreciated." "Where?" "To Shanghai and then on to India." And the orb of Skelly gleamed with pep and modern methods, "everything. So we told Skelly of the tombstone to Bombay and he became thoughtful. Later we told him of the American of huge business interests who came to conquer and, after thorough demonstrating his pep and business worth, good proposition, etc., in big time he gave a tiffin to his Japanese prospects. After doing the honors and listening to much that was flattering, he pulled his watch. "Gentlemen, said he, I have just ten minutes left before another most important conference and as we have thoroughly discussed my proposition, I am going to ask you to give me your decision in that time." Before the tiffin he had told his friends that for once he would make the "Japs do business as they should."

After his declaration there was ten minutes of polite conversation on every subject except his business, after which, with many polite expressions of appreciation for his hospitality, the guests departed, never to return. Another Fool had tried to hurry the East. But there is hope for Skelly. He is becoming quiet and subdued, after champing at the bit for a time, taking too many cocktails to subdue his ramping nerves, etc., all according to schedule. It is the period of stop, look and listen. Yes, there is hope for Skelly.

The Suwa Maru is in the harbor, speaking of Bombay and tombstones. Both will stick in our memory for some time. In 1916 we rode out a monsoon storm on her from Singapore to Ceylon, during which we passed through two wrecks and could not set foot on deck for the long trip. My cabin mate was a most objectionable man and had pre-empted the cool and comfortable bunk just next the door opening onto the lower deck, just forward of the swimming pool, newly filled. We were peevish until the storm hit us and our cabin shipped the contents of said pool, the near bunk getting the full force of the impact! We lost the aforementioned cabin mate and also an English officer's wife, going from Malay to London, who landed in Colombo, declaring if her husband ever wanted to see her again he could come to Ceylon! And she sold her ticket, declaring that never again would she set foot on a ship, big or small.

The old Suwa looks peaceful enough today, towering among her smaller sisters at the N. Y. K. dock but we last saw her heading toward South Africa, rather than risk the Mediterranean and German torpedoes, making the long trip around the cape rather than take the Suez canal. Looming in the placid harbor she looks to be too large for the biggest monsoon breaker to harm or the wickedest torpedo wreck. Appearances are deceitful, therefore don't try to hurry the East because she looks susceptible to a kick on the shins and don't judge the pleasures of running down natives with Tin Henries by twice told tales.

A Careless Habit

Don't buy a can of baking powder without knowing the exact weight of the contents—it's a careless habit and an expensive one.

Some baking powders are now put up in 12 oz. or 3/4 pound cans instead of 16 oz. or full pound cans as formerly. Your eye may not detect the difference in the size of the can—so always look at the label—know that you are getting 16 oz. or a full pound when you want it.

Remember when you buy Calumet Baking Powder you get 16 oz. — a full pound. The one pound size of Calumet has never been reduced.

That's one reason millions of housewives prefer and use Calumet. They also know that it produces pure, sweet and wholesome foods.

Calumet is the largest selling brand in the world — buy it — try it.

"The Boys' Store"

He walked back toward the camp. Out of the chaparral a thin column of pale gray smoke was rising.

"Ready, Shorty?" he asked.

The squat man nodded an assent and followed him over the summit into the valley beyond.

Brad Steelman sat hunched before a fire, head drooped low between his high, narrow shoulders. The restless black eyes in the dark hatchet face were sunk deeper now than in the old days. In them were beginning to come the hunted look of the gray wolf he resembled.

Steelman sidled to the door and opened it cautiously. A man pushed in and closed the door.

"Did you come here to make trouble, Dug?"

"No, I came to collect a bill."

"So? Didn't know I owed you any money right now. How much is it?"

"A thousand dollars."

Brad shot a quick, sidelong look at him. "What's wrong now, Dug?"

The ex-foreman of the D Bar Lazy R took his time to answer. He enjoyed the suspense under which his ally was held. "Why, I reckon nothin' a-tall. Only that this mornin' I put a match to about a couple hundred thousand dollars belongin' to Crawford, Sanders and Hart."

Eagerly Steelman clutched his arm. "You did it, then?"

"Didn't I say I'd do it?" snapped Doble, irritably. "D'ya ever know me to back on a bargain?"

"Shorty with you?"

"He was, an' he wasn't. I did it while he wasn't lookin'. Shorty's got a soft spot in him. Game enough, but with queer notions. Some time I'm liable to have to—"

Doble poured himself a large drink and took it at a swallow.

Doble drank steadily throughout the night. He remained steady on his feet, growing uglier and more reckless every hour.

Tied to Doble because he dared not break away from him, Steelman's busy brain began to plot a way to take advantage of this man's weakness for liquor.

"O' course I know, Dug, you're a better man than Sanders or Crawford either, but Malapi don't know it—yet."

"I'll show 'em!" cried the enraged bully.

"I'll bet you will. No man livin' can make a fool outa Dug Doble, rustle the evidence to send him to the pen, snap his fingers at him, and on top o' that steal his girl—That's what I told—"

Doble leaned across the table and caught in his great fist the wrist of Steelman. His bloodshot eyes glared into those of the man opposite.

"What'll you do?" he demanded hoarsely.

Steelman looked blandly innocent. "Didn't you know, Dug? Maybe I oughtn't to 'a' mentioned it."

"Fingers like ropes of steel tightened on the wrist."

"Don't do that, Dug! Em Crawford's girl!"

"What about her and Sanders?"

"Why, he's courtin' her—didn't you know?"

"When did he begin?" Doble slammed a hamlike fist on the table. "Spit it out, or I'll tear yore arm off."

CHAPTER XXII

A carpenter working on the roof of a derrick for Jackpot Number Six called down to his mates:

"Fire in the hills, looks like. I see smoke."

The contractor was an old-timer. He knew the danger of fire in the chaparral at this season of the year. Crawford borrowed without permission of the owner the nearest saddle horse and put it to a lope.

From the tower Hart descended swiftly. He gathered together all workers and equipped them with shovels, picks, brush-hooks, saws and axes. To each one he gave also a gunnysack.

The foot party followed Crawford into the chaparral, making for the hills that led to Bear Canon. A wind was stirring, and as they topped a rise it struck hot on their cheeks. A flake of ash fell on Bob's hand.

Crawford met them at the mouth of the canon.

"She's rip-farin', Bob! Got too big a start to beat out. We'll clear a fire-break where the gulch narrows just above here and do our fighting there."

The wind was stiffer now and the fury of the fire closer. The flames roared down the canon like a blast furnace. Driven back by the intense heat, the men retreated across the break and clung to their line. Already their lungs were sore from inhaling smoke and their throats were inflamed. A pine, its pitchy trunk ablaze, crashed down across the fire-trail and caught in the fork of a tree beyond. Instantly the foliage leaped to red flame.

Bob galloped into the canon and dug himself from the horse.

"She's jumpin' outa the gulch above. Too late to head her off. We better run a trail along the top of the ridge, don't you reckon?" he said.

HIS BLOODSHOT EYES GLARED INTO THOSE OF THE MAN OPPOSITE.

"Yes, son," agreed Crawford. "We can just about hold her here. It'll be hours before I can spare a man for the ridge. We got to get help in a hurry. You ride to town and rustle men."

The canon above them was by this time a sea of fire, the most terrifying sight Bob had ever looked upon. Monster flames leaped at the walls of the gulch, swept in an eye-blink over draws, attacked with savage roar the dry vegetation. The noise was like the crash of mountains meeting. Thunder could scarce have made itself heard.

Sanders was in the office of the Jackpot Company looking over some blue-prints when Joyce Crawford came in. "Dad told me something last night, Mr. Sanders. He said I might pass it on to you and Bob, though it isn't to go farther. It's about that ten thousand dollars he paid the bank when it called his loan. He got the money from Buck Byington."

"Buck!" exclaimed the young man. "I know," she explained. "The money wasn't his. He's executor or something for the children of his dead brother. When he heard Dad was so desperately hard up for cash he let him have the money. Now it has been straightened out. That's why Dad couldn't tell where he got the money. Buck would have been in trouble."

"I see."

A shadow darkened the doorway and Bob Hart stepped into the office. His first words were ominous, but before he spoke both of those looking at him knew he was the bearer of bad news. There was in his boyish face an untoward gravity.

"Fire in the Chaparral, Dave, and going strong."

Sanders spoke one word. "Where?"

"Stated in Bear Canon, but it's jumped out into the hills."

Joyce guessed the situation was a desperate one. "Is Dad in danger?" she asked.

Hart answered. "No—not now, anyhow."

"What can I do to help?"

"We'll have hundred of men in the field probably, if this fire has a real start," Dave told her. "We'll need food and coffee—lots of it. Organize the women. Make meat sandwiches—hundreds of them. And send out to the Jackpot dozens of coffee pots. Your job is to keep the workers well fed. Better send bandages and salve, in case some get hurt."

Sanders was on the road inside of twenty minutes, a group of horsemen galloping at his heels. Through the smoke the sun was blood-red. The air was heavy and heated.

From the fire line Crawford came to meet these new allies. "We're holdin' her here. It's been nip an' tuck."

Emerson Crawford was holding his ground, though barely holding it.

"How are things up above?" he asked in a hoarse whisper.

"Good. We held the check-line."

"See it through, Say, son, look who's here!" His thumb hitched toward his right shoulder.

Dave looked down the line of blackened, grimy fire-fighters and his eye fell on Shorty. He was still wearing chaps, but his Chihuahuas hat had succumbed long ago. Manifestly the man had been on the fighting line for some time.

"Doesn't he know about the reward?"

"Yes. He was hidin' in Malapi when the call came for men. Says he's no quitter, whatever else he is. You bet he ain't. He's worth two of most men at his work. Soon as we get through he'll be on the dodge again. He's a good sport, anyhow. I'll say that for him."

CHAPTER XXIII

When Shorty separated from Doble in Frío Canon he rode inconspicuously to a tenejon where he could be snugly hidden from the public gaze and yet meet a few "pals" whom he could trust at least as long as he could keep his eyes on them.

Shorty was an outlaw and a bad man. He had killed, and might at any time kill again. To save the Jackpot from destruction he would not have made a turn of the hand. But Shorty was a cattleman. He was loyal to the hand that paid him, he stood by his pals and he believed in and after his own fashion loved cattle and the life of which they were the central fact. To destroy the range feed wantonly was a crime so nefarious that he could not believe Doble guilty of. And yet—

He could not let the matter lie in doubt. He left the tenejon and rode to Steelman's house.

"Where's Dug?" Shorty demanded of Steelman.

The patient's memory, it was reported, is clear as to events prior to his marriage fifteen years ago. He failed to recognize his wife and insisted that his 16-year-old son by a former marriage, brought to his bedside was not his son, as his son was just a small child.

INTER-COUNTY MEET OF TEACHERS TO BE HELD AT ROCHELLE

Good Program for Lee and Ogle Gathering Saturday Morn.

The inter-county gathering of teachers and friends of education at Rockelle Saturday has already evidenced a reaction of interest.

With a conservation of available
school funds in mind, this point of accessibility was chosen by Superintendents Cross and Miller, who assume joint responsibility of this meeting which schedules Dr. C. H.
LeVitt of Savanna, Ill., Miss Jennie
Franks of Dixon, Ill., and Principal
M. R. Grigsby, of Oregon, Ill., as chief speakers. The program begins at 9:30 a. m., and with the excellent roadway and railway service, many teachers of this vicinity will be in attendance. The new Community high school will be open for the inspection of teachers.

Below are given some extracts
from the pen of Dr. LeVitt:

Madame Teacher: If you would have your pupils do E grade work,
do E grade teaching.

Eventually pupils will judge themselves, plan themselves, discipline
themselves, think themselves, be themselves: why not now?

Because a pupil examines himself
every day, he knows the final examination is unnecessary.

Teacher-grading without the participation of the pupils is the biggest piece of kindergarten camouflage
being perpetrated on children in the name of education. These ex cathedra judgments of the teacher without the full authority of the children are antecurancy par excellence. Observe her majesty, the teacher, at the beginning of the month exhibiting to the unsuspecting youngsters an empty
hat. This empty hat is the Little Red Grade Book. At the end of an agonizing period—say a month—and after sundry magic passes and innumerable admonitions to keep their eyes on the hat, presto the white rub-bit grade is produced before the astonished eyes of the pupils to be taken home on the report card as an evidence of what?—as having been one of the participants in a game of blind-man's buff.

A system of education must begin and end with the pupil. The amount of emphasis placed upon the boy and girl, and the responsibilities which they are expected to assume, determines what is to be done, how it is to be done, and the measurement of the results to be accomplished. If achievement in the school subjects be the summum bonum then school
marks—the 96% of the report cards
must ever be the goal of pupil—effort
and pupil—excellence, and the Little Red Grade and blue pencil the essential tools of the teacher. If, instead, recognition and encouragement be given for pupil cooperation, pupil-
service, and pupil-initiative as avenues for experiencing the subjects of the curriculum, then will these virtues be the dominant controlling factors in the mind of the pupil and in the blue prints of the teacher. Between these two educational ideas
there is all the difference in the world: the one places subject matter

STANDARD OIL CO. DEFENDANT IN LARGE SUIT

$50,000,000 Action is Under Way in Missouri Court.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
San Barbara, Calif., Feb. 9.—Holmes Hall of Sedalia, Missouri, Master-in-Chancery began testimony here
yesterday in the suit of the Universal Oil Products Company against the Standard Oil Company of Indiana to restrain the defendant from using the William Burton process for distilling gasoline from crude petroleum and for damages for alleged infringement of patent, estimated to amount to $50,- 000,000.

The Universal Company, said to be heavily backed by J. Ogden Armour, bases its claim for exclusive right to the process on the ground that it acquired the invention of the late Jesse
A. Dubbs for demulsifying crude oil,
on which, it contends the Burton process infringes.

The action was filed in Kansas City about two years ago. The hearing is held here because Dubbs' first plant
was operated near here and many witnesses in the case live near here.

Farm Bloc Wins in Senate Test Vote

Washington, Feb. 9.—Passage by the senate of the house co-operative marketing bill by a vote of 58 to 1 was viewed by many today as the most sweeping victory yet attained by the farm bloc. Before passing, late yesterday, the house measure which relieves the farmers' co-operative associations from the application of laws
prohibiting trusts or unfair business practices, and places authority to determine when such acts have been committed with the secretary of agriculture, the senate rejected by a vote

of 54 to 6, the bill reported by its own judiciary committee, which would have held the associations amenable to present laws.

The measure now goes to conference for adjustment of differences with
the house.
